Condition

- My wife had a stroke 6 months ago.

She sees her GP every month for this. She attends regular rehabilitation sessions but otherwise spends most of her time in the wheelchair or in bed. Her mouth dribbles throughout the day and night. She does not speak but mumbles so I know what she needs. I am her main carer.

Moving around and using steps:

- Mobility limited to 50 metres.

She can walk only a few steps with a Zimmer frame indoors only but she is really unsteady. I have to push her in a wheelchair when we go out.

She cannot manage stairs but we live in a bungalow.

Standing and sitting:

- Cannot move from one seat to another without help

I have to help her out of bed and into the wheelchair. She cannot stand at all and will spend all her time in bed or in her wheelchair.

Upper limb functions:

She has a very weak right arm. I have to help her with everything.

All other physical and mental functional activities:

- Blank
